A NOTE FOR FAMILIES

Hoppo: free movement and learning games

Dear families,

In class we sometimes use Hoppo for a short movement break or a quick practice game. It is a free website of movement and learning games for children ages 5-8, and it works on a phone, tablet or computer.

Hoppo has no accounts for children and never asks a child for an email address. When a game uses a camera, the video is processed on the device and is never uploaded or saved.

If your child would like to show you a game, scan the code below or visit playhoppo.com. Games are short, a few minutes each, and you can play along. There is nothing to buy or download.

TRYING IT AT HOME

1. Scan the code with a phone or tablet camera, or type playhoppo.com on a computer.
2. Pick a game. Touch or a mouse works, and a camera is optional. If a game asks to use the camera, you can say no and keep playing with touch where the game allows it.
3. Play a few minutes together, then stop whenever you like.

THE SHORT VERSION

- Free. No account and no sign-up for children.
- Camera video stays on the device and is never uploaded.
- This note carries no information about your child or class.

Scan to try Hoppo

playhoppo.com

Questions? Please ask me, or read how Hoppo handles privacy at playhoppo.com/privacy.html.

Thank you,

_____ (teacher) Date: _____

Teacher: write your name and date above, then copy this note or send the text from the toolkit page. It has no student information, and nothing here asks families to post or share anything about their child.